

What do UPS and FedEx Have That YOUR Company Does Not Have?

They offer their customers the convenience, efficiency, and flexibility of being able to conduct business online. Their customers can enter an order and track its progress from pick-up to delivery without ever having to pick up the phone.

Can you offer these same benefits and conveniences to your customers?

The answer is yes.

Take Your Place in the Online World

Now, Courier-Connex offers you the opportunity to have the same online presence as the giants of the delivery industry. But you won't have to endure the headaches and expenses that often go along with becoming an online business.

You'll have no I.T. department to hire and manage, no servers to purchase and maintain, no software to continuously upgrade, and no disastrous computer crashes to worry about.

You and your customers will simply log in to your secure website and conduct business.

We'll take care of the rest.

Make Your Business More Efficient

Nothing is more important to any business than customer satisfaction. And when you offer your customers all of the benefits of doing business online, you'll have some happy customers.

From your customer's perspective, doing business with you will be as effortless, efficient, and smooth as doing business with the big boys – but with the personal touch that only a smaller, more local company can offer.

But by going online with Courier-Connex, your business will also become more efficient, saving you money and headaches. Here are just a few examples of how your business will become more efficient:

- You'll be able to reduce wasted time and resources AND increase customer satisfaction by eliminating order-taking errors.
- By automating much of your business, the workload of dispatch and office personnel will be reduced.

- The ability to prepare and print invoices online, and also receive customer payments online, will streamline the billing and collections process.

What Will YOU have to do to Get Started Doing Business Online?

Just give us the go-ahead to build your website!

We will build your website, customize it with your own company logo, and host it on our servers. We will register your domain name for you, and build and maintain your database. We will provide the interface between your website and our proprietary software.

Once your website is completed, both you and your customers will be able to access it from any computer with an Internet connection.

There's No Reason to Wait

Courier-Connex offers you all of the benefits of doing business online at a surprisingly affordable price. We can do this because we provide the same service for many businesses in the delivery industry.
